ORACLE 1967

WHITMER HIGH SCHOOL TOLEDO, OHIO

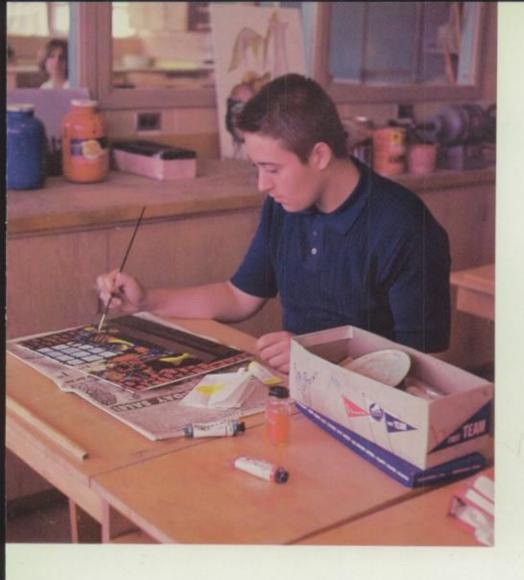

I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep.

The Road Not Taken-Robert Frost

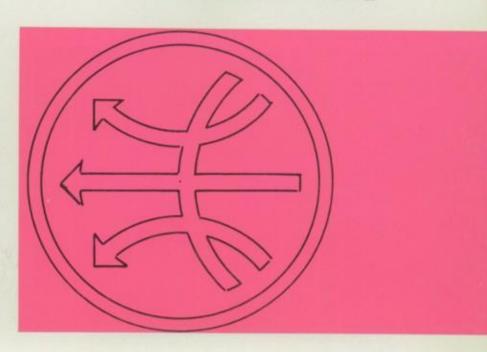

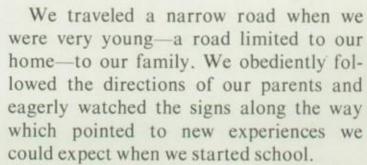

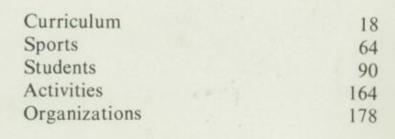

WHERE WE WERE

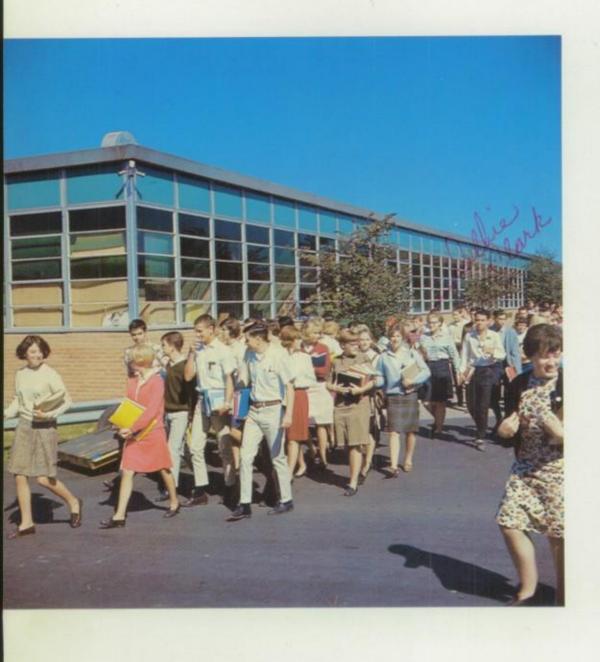

Then our road widened as we came under the influences of our teachers and new school friends. Some of us tried different bypaths as we were challenged by the excitement of scouting, sports, music, and other arts. This was a very active time in our lives, and we never seemed to tire of busy days. We were free of prejudice and were always eager to accept a new idea. This was a time of freedom from responsibility—a freedom which would lessen in the future. This was a time when we began to set our feet in a definite direction.

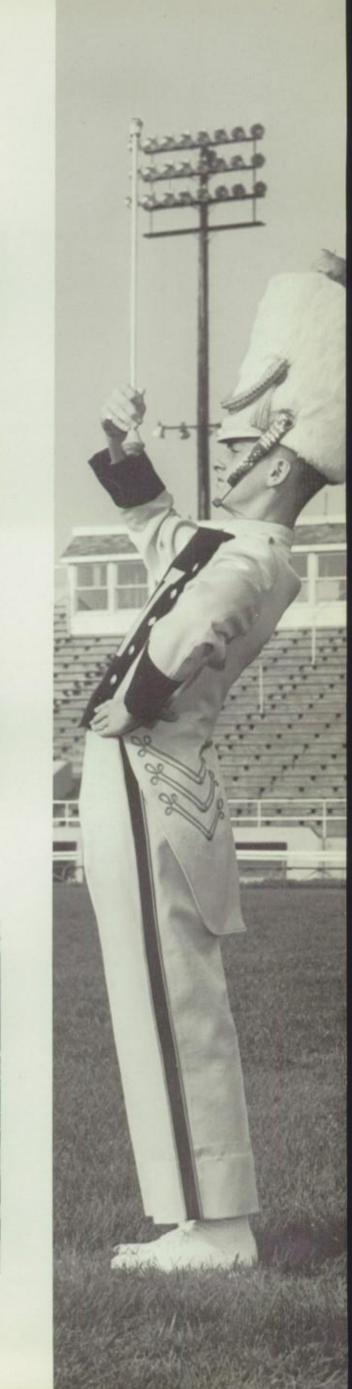

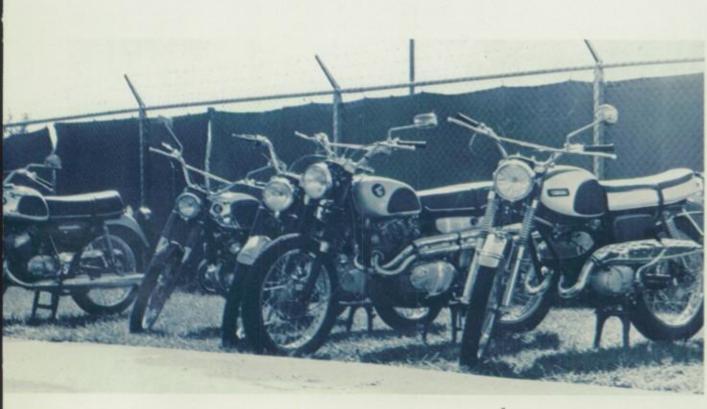

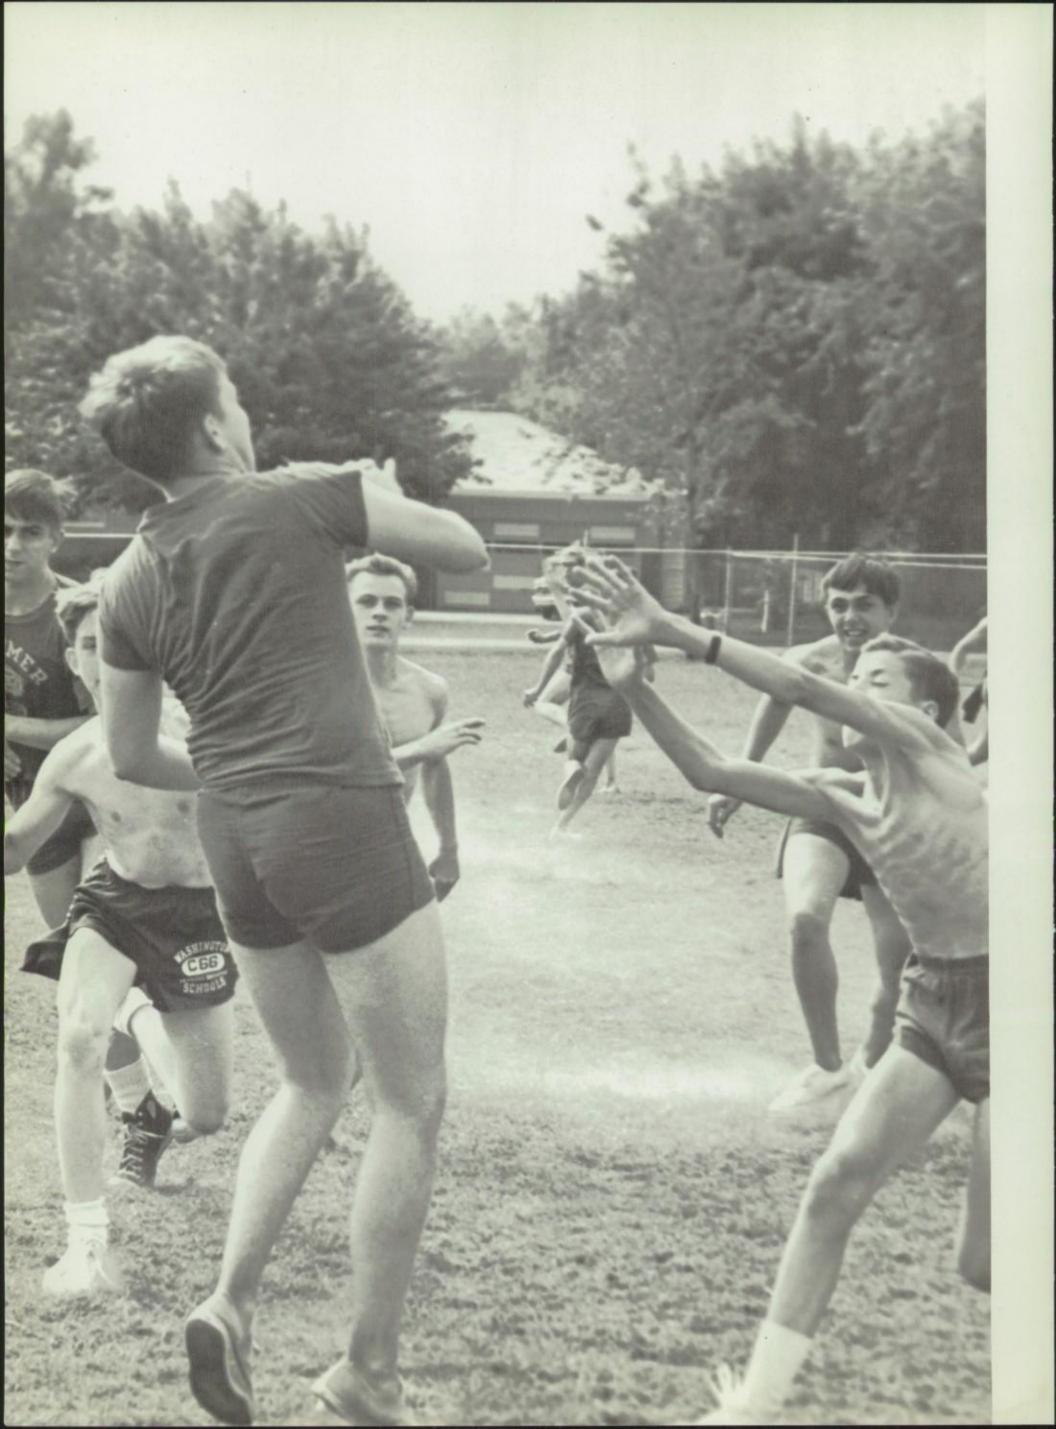

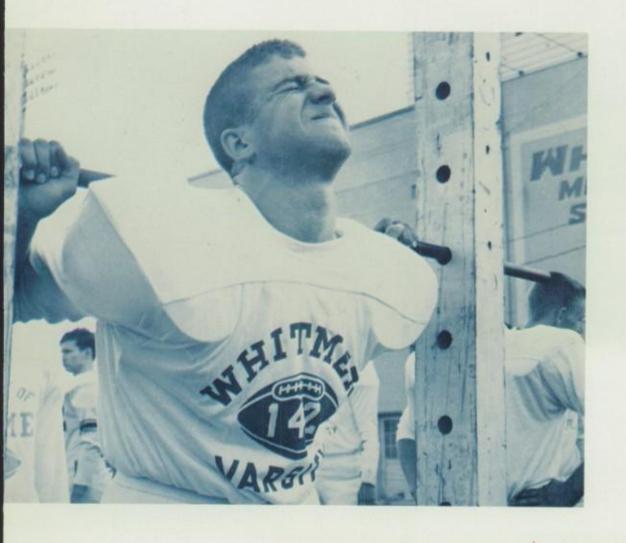

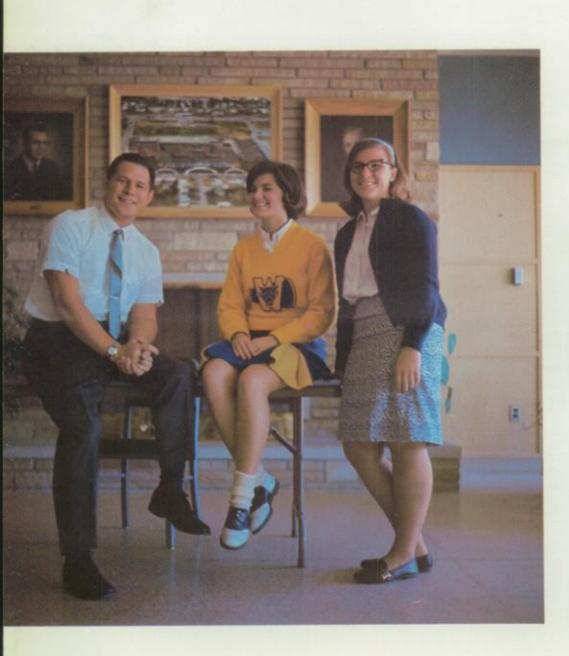

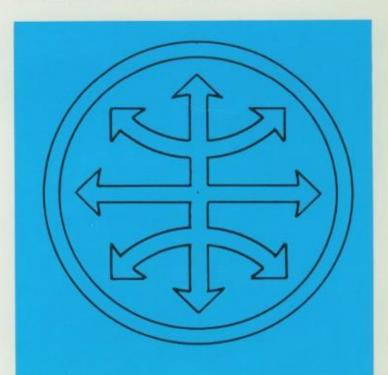

Now we are Whitmer students and traveling the highway of broader experiences. We have listened to tales of high school life, and we are learning the rigors of concentrated study and independent research. Our leaders are emerging from each level to lead us to greater achievements in activities and curriculum, as well as student council and class functions.

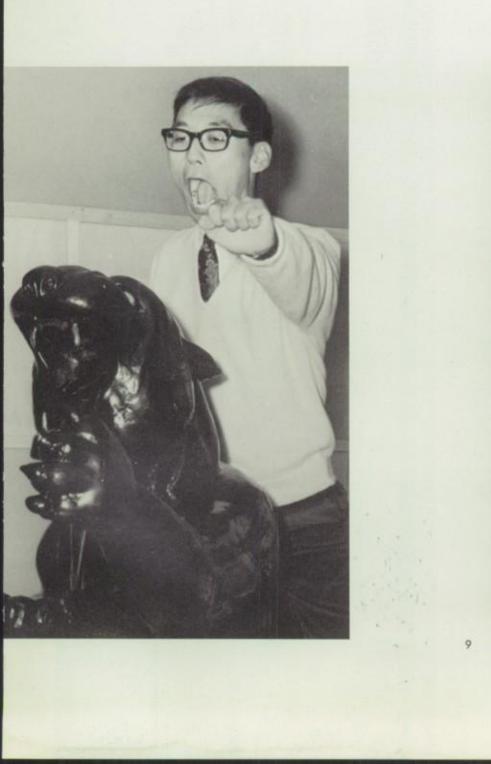

We are the crowd cheering our teams on to victory at pep sessions and games, we are the audience applauding our dramatic productions, we are the students participating in the circus, the speech tournaments, and the marching band, and we are the spirit which has made Whitmer an outstanding school.

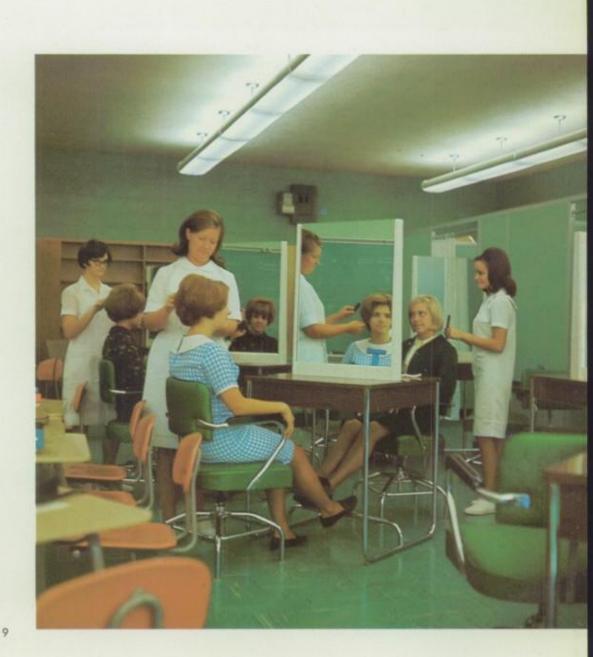

We are living in an atmosphere of finding ourselves, forming new associations, enjoying social events, and facing challenging realities. We are finding that the interests we enjoyed as children no longer satisfy us, for in high school we are discovering that the signs pointing to the future are taking on new dimensions as well as new directions.

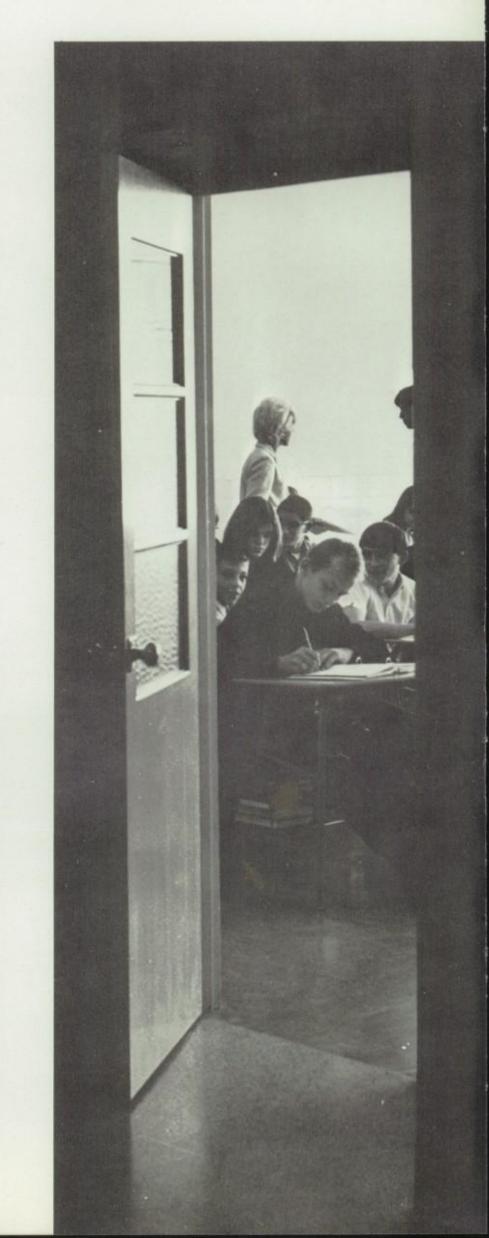

WHERE WE ARE

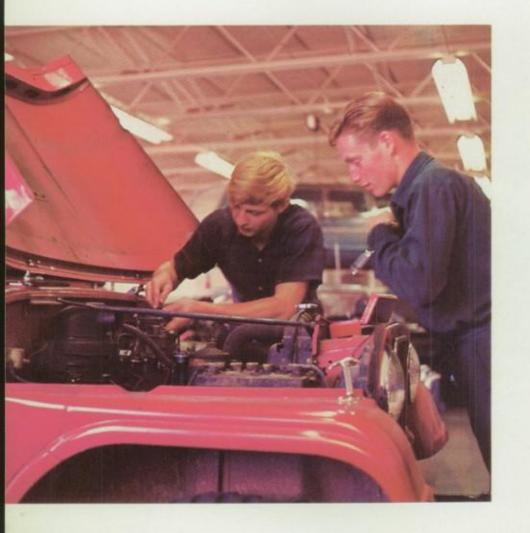

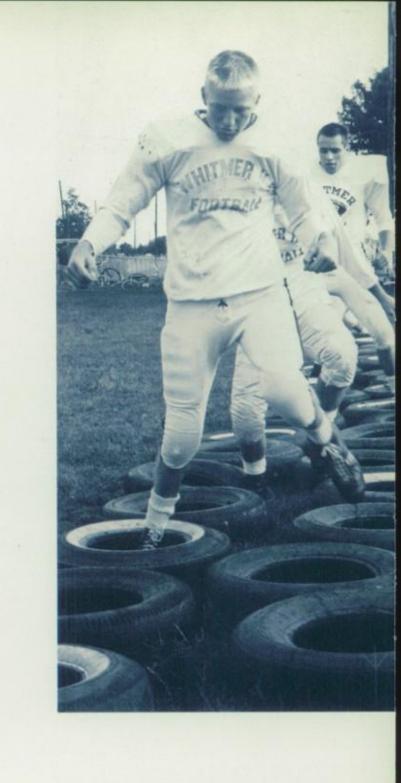

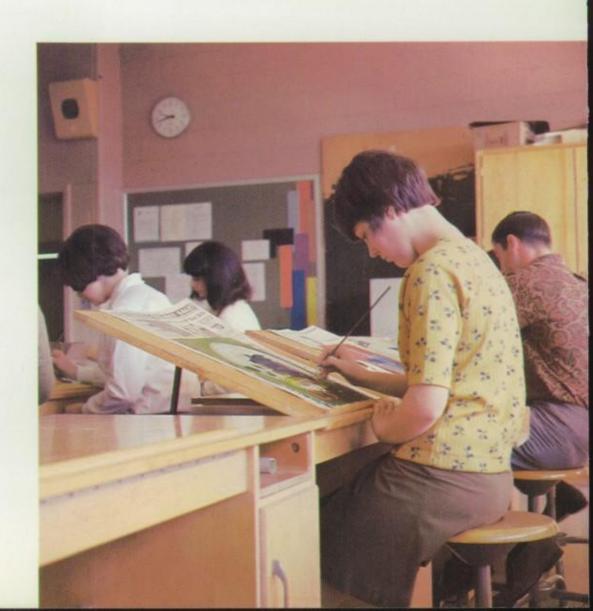

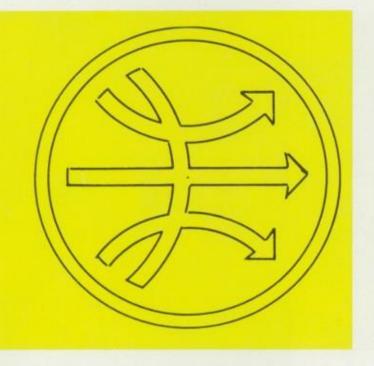

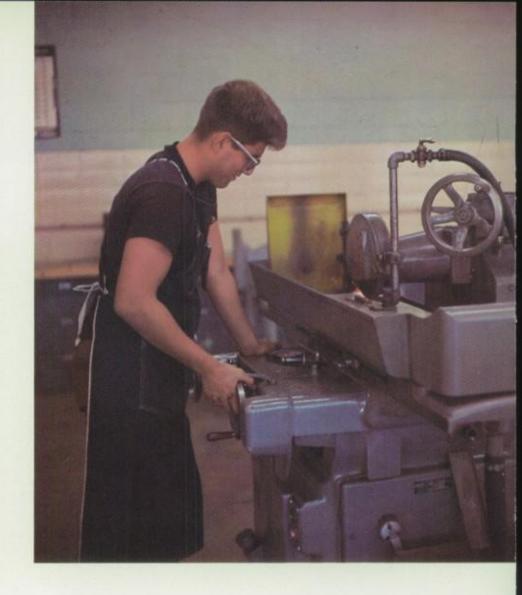

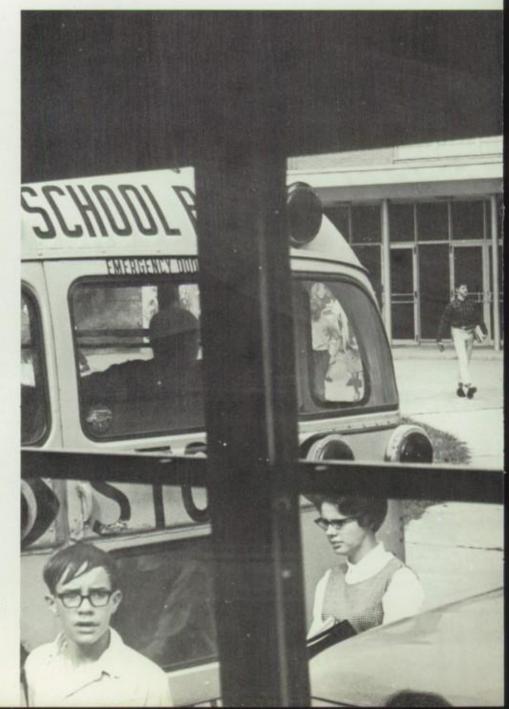

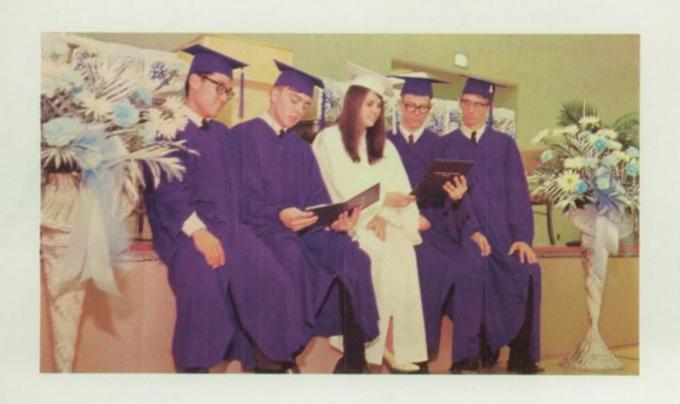

WHERE WE ARE GOING

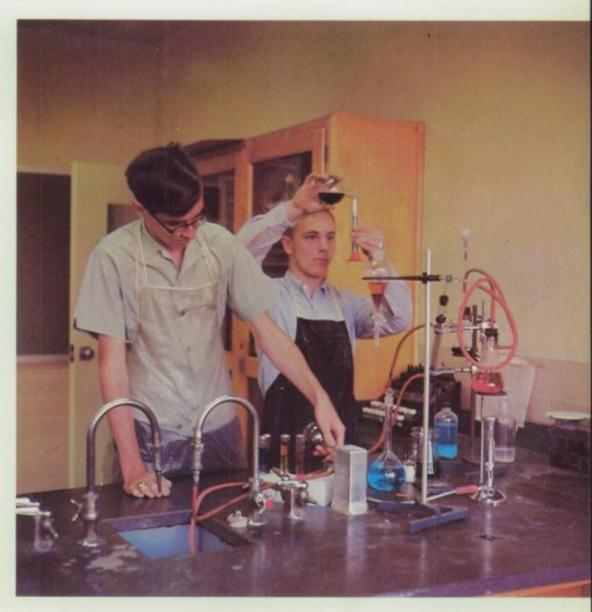

As graduation directs us to our life's goal, it will be the last event in which all of us participate together. From there we will find ourselves going in different directions, each to fulfill his own personal goal. Some of us will continue our schooling by going on to universities or trade schools, while others are already prepared for their vocations in business or industry. Still others will join the armed forces to protect our country and the ideals of freedom in our way of life. Perhaps from our class will come an astronaut, a nuclear physicist, a great actress, or even a future President of the United States. We who have followed the signs of the past to develop our best abilities will now assume a new and more important role serving as the models for the youth of a new generation. Many of us will be the parents, the teachers, and the professional men who will point the way to the future. As all of us turn our eyes forward, we will keep our faith with those who have guided us through the years.

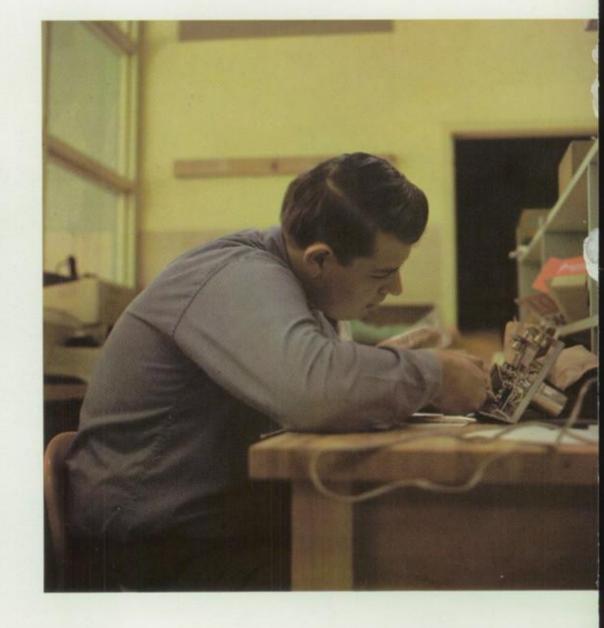

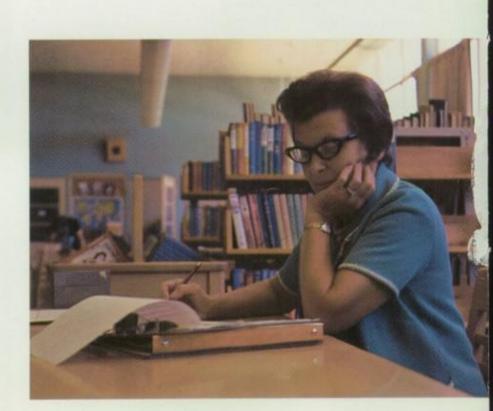

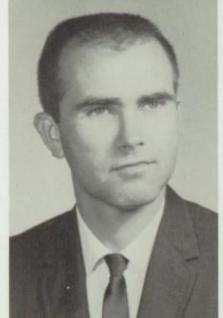

CURRICULUM

Dr. Mignerey, Mr. Thyer, Mr. Nightingale.

Mr. Harvey Davis Director of Secondary Education

Mr. David Huffman Director of Elementary Education Careful planning and determination lead to orderly school system.

Mr. Martin Brumbaugh-Administrative Assistant for Business and Mr. Dean DeLong-Assistant Superintendent.

Mr. Knisely-President, Mr. Benton-Clerk-Treasurer, Mr. Kutz, Dr. Scherbarth.

Mr. Homer S. Nightingale Superintendent of Schools

The Washington Local Board of Education began the 1966-1967 school year by introducing new Federal programs to the system and hiring a full-time coordinator for them. In addition to starting the construction of elementary classrooms, the board approved a new salary schedule for teachers, expanded the elementary school program, and revised many operational policies.

All the board members have had children attending or in attendance at Whitmer. The president Mr. Ronald Knisely, a plant superintendent at A.P. Parts, now has a daughter at our school. Dr. Harry Mignerey, county coroner, is the father of three Whitmer graduates. Dr. Rolland Scherbarth, a Whitmer graduate too, has a daughter now attending and a son and daughter who are graduates. Mr. John Thyer, also a former Whitmerite, has had three children graduate from Whitmer. W.S.P.D. radio announcer, Mr. Edward C. Kutz, now has a son at Whitmer and a daughter who graduated a year ago.

Mr. Homer Nightingale has just completed his ninth year as superintendent of the school system which is now the largest non-city school system in Ohio. Working under him were Mr. Dean DeLong, assistant superintendent; Mr. Harvey Davis, secondary supervisor; Mr. David Huffman, elementary supervisor; and Mr. Martin Brumbaugh, business manager. Mr. Orra Benton served as clerk-treasurer of the board of education.

Whitmer welcomed Mr. James Jones as our new principal this year. He is a graduate of Miami University at Oxford with a Master's degree from the University of Michigan. Before coming to Whitmer, Mr. Jones had been a coach, an athletic director, and a principal of a junior high school as well as a senior high. He brought many new ideas with him, one of which was to eliminate the bells. The thing he likes best about Whitmer is the friendly atmosphere.

Mr. Alvarez has completed his second year as assistant principal, and he is proud of his nine years as Whitmer's basketball coach. He is an avid sports follower, but he still finds time for his two children and three grandchildren. He enjoys all seasons of the year because each offers different activities for participation and enjoyment.

Hurried plans are made over Mrs. Scofield's desk before the hectic school days in the fall.

Mrs. Virginia Feaver, Mrs. Marge Scofield, Mrs. Elsie Miller, Mrs. Mary Lou Pontius.

Whitmer gives a warm welcome to Mr. Jones as the new principal.

Mrs. Feaver, an assistant in the office, has worked in professional Girl Scouting. She is the mother of four children, two of whom are Whitmer graduates, and she enjoys camping with her family. Mrs. Scofield, secretary to Mr. Alvarez, has been at Whitmer for nine years. She thinks a course on correct posture should be added to the curriculum. Colorful fall is her favorite season. Penmanship is a course that Mrs. Miller, secretary to Mr. Jones, would like added to the curriculum. She feels proud that Whitmer students have been able to run such a large school without bells. Mrs. Pontius, new to Whitmer this year, works in the principal's office. She is the mother of three children and her most interesting vacation was a trip to Yellowstone National Park.

As a hall guard in the front lobby, Randy Mills catches up on his homework when he isn't greeting guests or checking the halls.

The deans, nurse, and counselors are always helpful to students.

Guidance counseling was an important service offered at Whitmer. Counselors helped students to plan their education by interpretation of test scores and placement in classes suited to their needs. Vocational counseling helped the individual to find the job that would best suit his skills. Those students who planned to attend college had access to a library of college catalogues to aid in selection of the college they wished to attend. Another aid to college selection was College Night which offered further information in higher education. Throughout the year, representatives of business, trade, and universities visited Whitmer to speak to interested students.

Another school service was a full-time nurse, who administered first aid or notified a doctor when accidents occurred. She was also responsible for the boys' and girls' health rooms.

Two very important administrative posts at Whitmer are held by the dean of girls and the dean of boys. In addition to checking attendance records and setting standards of good conduct, they were also available for advice.

As the vocational guidance counselor, MR. EIGENSEE advises many business and industrial arts students. He would like to see a Whitmer Alumni Day on which former students and graduates could meet with the faculty. MRS. STEWART, the only woman guidance counselor, aids many girls with personal problems as well as her guidance duties. She would like to see more reading classes added to the present curriculum. MR. GIBSON, guidance counselor, would like to see a work experience program added to the curriculum. He thinks the victory bell is Whitmer's best tradition, and his favorite time of year is summer. MR. ZUNK, a new guidance counselor this year, appreciates the sincere attitude of Whitmer's faculty. He reports that his most interesting vacation was in Europe when he was on leave from the army. MRS. KOHLER, the school nurse, also advises the Paramedical Club. She likes the victory bell and the circus best of Whitmer's traditions, and her favorite season is spring because baseball season begins. MR. HERSLAND, dean of boys, would like to add a course in practical law to the curriculum. Fall is his favorite time of year because of the many colors and pleasant temperatures. MRS. SCHLEGEL, dean of girls, has a friendly smile and a listening ear for any girl with a problem. Her most interesting vacation was the one she took to the Orient last summer.

New evening library hours give students more study time.

Our school library helped the Whitmer student to discover new worlds—the worlds of ideas, realities, and fantasies. Many new books were added to the collection to aid the student in his reading, both for pleasure and study.

This year the library inaugurated a new program for more extensive use of its facilities during the week. Its doors were opened to students in the evening. During the day the librarians also opened its conference rooms to individuals who wished to formulate and rehearse speeches. These rooms were also available for small groups wishing to discuss other assignments cooperatively. Browsing periods were encouraged to stimulate students to regard the library as a place of relaxation as well as research.

The special education class offered each student more attention than he would normally receive in a class. This enabled him to learn at his own ability level and to reach his individual potential.

Distributive Education provided on-the-job experience along with the completion of the student's education. Students attended classes half of each day and worked at a job pertaining to their field during the afternoon.

A library assistant checks out a book for a student while other students make use of the library's pleasant atmosphere for reading and studying.

Distributive education students set up a display to advertise their money making project.

MRS. HUBBARD, school librarian and Library Council adviser, thinks that more honors courses would be beneficial to the curriculum. She appreciates the warm weather that spring brings and enjoys the colorful foliage of fall. MRS. LEMERAND, adviser of Library Council, is a library assistant. She would like to see a course for dental and medical secretaries added to the curriculum, and fall is her favorite time of the year. MR. GRAU, who teaches special education, coaches the chess team. He is an avid chess player and is active in local chess organizations. He became a teacher because he enjoys being with people. MR. PIPPERT advises DECA and teaches distributive education and aviation. He thinks that a course on airframe and aircraft engines should be added to the curriculum, and the cold winter is his favorite season.

Pupils develop speech and writing abilities in English classes.

The scope of sophomore English was wide and varied. The terrors of the French Revolution became alive and vivid to sophomores as they read A Tale of Two Cities. Students became familiar with the lives of Silas Marner and little Eppie and relived the dramatic assassination of Julius Caesar. Words became more meaningful as they discussed the ancient legends of mythology. Colorful book jackets and poetry anthologies were the results of the creative efforts of all sophomores.

Students who took speech learned the art of public speaking as they prepared and presented numerous speeches, debates, and panel discussions. Pantomimes, imitations, and dramatic dialogues helped the classes to achieve self-expression and poise.

The Panther's Pause staff kept students informed of the latest happenings as staff members wrote news copy for the production of the school paper. The Oracle staff spent long hours planning layouts, captions, and heads for publication of the 1967 yearbook.

The weights, which require strength and balance to lift, provide an original subject for Bill Janowicz's demonstration speech.

Dave Clay operates the English department's new opaque projector in a sophomore English class.

MRS. TOWE, who heads the English department, teaches sophomore and junior English. She believes that the tradition of senior preference over many things is important because it gives the underclassmen a goal to achieve. MISS PIZZO teaches speech, coaches the individual events team, and advises Thespians. She also directed the senior play. She is impressed with the victory bell and would like to see it rung more often. MISS APPLEGATE, who teaches English and composition, is a junior class adviser, and she was the vocal director for Flower Drum Song. She would like to see an English Traditions class offered to seniors. MR. HIGH, a graduate of the University of Missouri, teaches English. His favorite Whitmer tradition is that of good sportsmanship, and he favors spring because he likes to fish, golf, hike, and travel. MISS WRZESINSKI teaches sophomore and junior English and journalism. She is the adviser to the Panther's Pause and Quill and Scroll. She considers summer her favorite season because it is a time for relaxation. MISS SCHULTZ, a former Whitmer graduate, teaches sophomore English. The outstanding school spirit of Whitmerites impresses her most. Trips to Florida and northern Michigan rate as her most interesting vacations. MR. REEDER, who teaches composition, creative writing, and world literature, is also adviser to Student Council. He would like to have a senior courtyard started as a new tradition at Whitmer. MRS. DENNIS, who teaches English and advises the Oracle, also advises Honor Society. She would like to begin the tradition of having seniors receive their yearbooks before the sophomores and juniors get theirs.

Yesterday's world is explored as students read literary works.

MRS. STAHR teaches junior and senior English and her favorite Whitmer tradition is Color Day. She welcomes spring because it means that winter driving has been dismissed until the following year. MR. REX teaches sophomore English and coaches ninth grade football. He likes the students best at Whitmer, his pet peeve is hypocrisy, and his favorite vacation was a camping trip to Canada. MRS. GOLDMAN joined the English department this year. She is the proud mother of two sons, both college graduates. What she likes best about Whitmer is the high standards of accomplishment. MRS. NINKE teaches sophomore English, and the quality she likes best about Whitmer is the attitude and pride of the students and faculty. He enjoys the Friday pep sessions and thinks that occasional skits would add interest to them. MISS BURPEE, a new member of the Whitmer faculty this year, teaches English and is an adviser to the sophomore class. Her favorite time of the year is spring when she makes her annual trip to Florida. MRS. CRAMER teaches junior English and the quality she likes best about Whitmer is the students. Her most interesting vacation was a national convention of the American Association of University Women which she attended in Portland, Oregon. MRS. WYATT teaches American Traditions and sophomore and junior English. Summer is her favorite season of the year, and she likes to spend it swimming and bicycle riding with her family.

The atmosphere of an exciting whaling voyage becomes real as Kay Klatt and Linda Ellis discuss Moby Dick projects.

Seniors had a variety of courses to complete their final year in English. Many of them chose British literature in which they read and interpreted the dramas, Macbeth, King Lear, and She Stoops to Conquer. Seniors interested in reading a wide range of literary works found that world literature was a stimulating course. Italian, Russian, French, and Chinese masterpieces were read and discussed.

Seniors who desired to develop skill and individual style in writing elected composition. Students learned to make their writing tighter, cleaner, and more meaningful. Creative writing was an optional course for those who wished to use their imaginations in creating short stories, plays, skits, and poems.

With American literature as their theme, juniors studied the most prominent American authors and their works. Moby Dick was explored by many of the classes for its adventures and symbolism while To Kill a Mockingbird was read to relate to contemporary problems of society.

Biology and physiology students examine forms of plants and animals.

Biology students began with the study of the simple cell and progressed to cover the plant and animal kingdoms. Use and care of the microscope was one of the first things learned by the students. Later, as classes became more advanced in the animal kingdom, students were taught to use the dissecting tools to dissect the crayfish, frog, and worm. Charts and models were standard equipment in the biology rooms as they aided the students in the understanding of various structures. Genetics was also covered by the students as they developed skill in the working of problems in heredity.

Students enjoying biology were likely to enroll in physiology. Systems and functions were a major topic of study in this class. Exploration of cat cadavers was an established part of the physiology course. Muscles and bones of the human body were located and memorized by the students.

To Laurel Bridger and Joanna Houck, the study of the bones of the body takes on more appeal with the use of skeletons.

Mr. Gerald Ice Head of Department

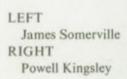

MR. ICE, head of the science department, teaches physiology. His favorite tradition is, "Whitmer's tradition of being the best high school in Ohio." He likes fall for the cool weather, football season, and pumpkin pie. A graduate of Otterbein College, MR. CLINE joined the faculty this year. He teaches biology and physical education, and he is the track coach and serves as an assistant football coach. MR. HAMRICK teaches chemistry to early bird classes as well as regular classes. Usually he spends his summers working or attending school. "Spanish dancing boots," and extra long hair for boys are two fads that annoy him. MR. DAVIS, who teaches biology, is also a senior class adviser. His favorite seasons are fall for the football games and summer because he likes to go swimming and boating. MRS. KALMBACH, who teaches chemistry, advises both NFL and Forum. As the varsity debate coach, she spends many weekends during the year traveling all over Ohio. She ranks the circus as her favorite Whitmer tradition.

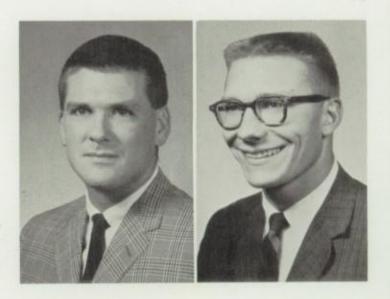

After dissecting a frog, Gary Moyer and Bill Kasdorf examine its tissues under a microscope.

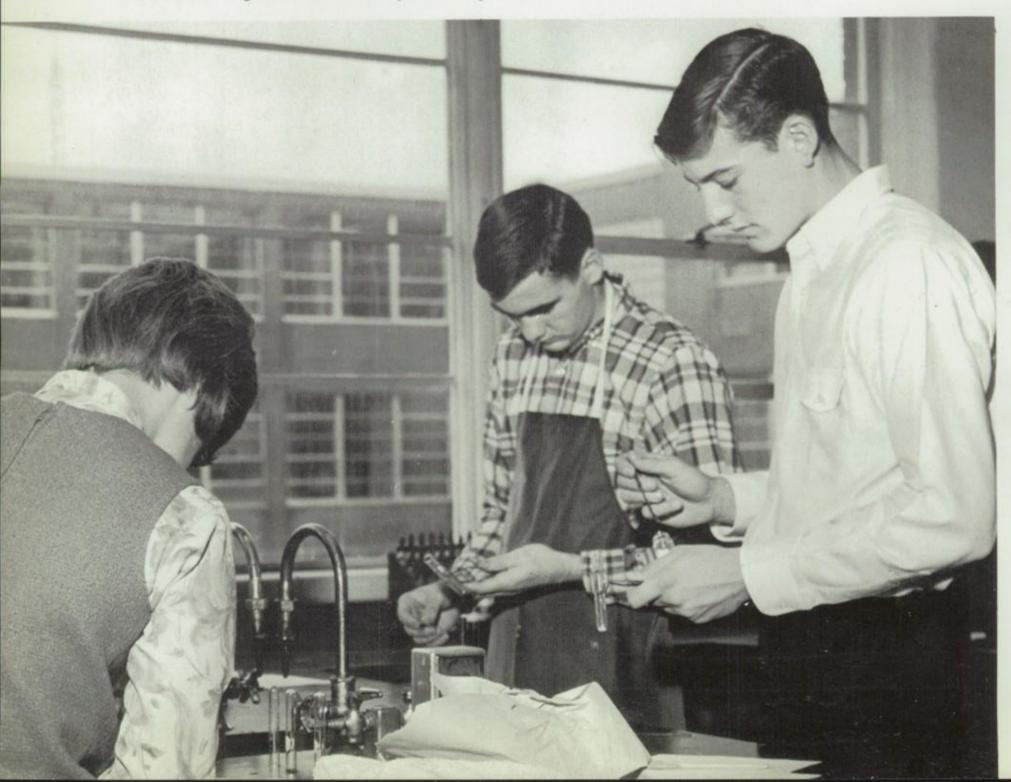

MR. SOMERVILLE teaches biology and advises Biology Club. He would like to add a seminar for advanced science students, and he especially likes the pep cheering section at athletic events. His favorite season is fall. New this year, MR. KINGSLEY teaches biology and coaches golf and football. The thing he likes best about Whitmer is the "wonderful bunch of kids" and the friendly and professional manner of the faculty. Here for only one semester, MRS. GORMAN teaches biology. She is a graduate of Western Michigan University, and she is impressed with the friendly atmosphere in a large school. Her pet peeve is gum chewing. MR. LABAY, who teaches physics and chemistry, also advises the JETS. He likes his classes best at Whitmer, and he likes the concern shown by the teachers in preparing students for adult life.

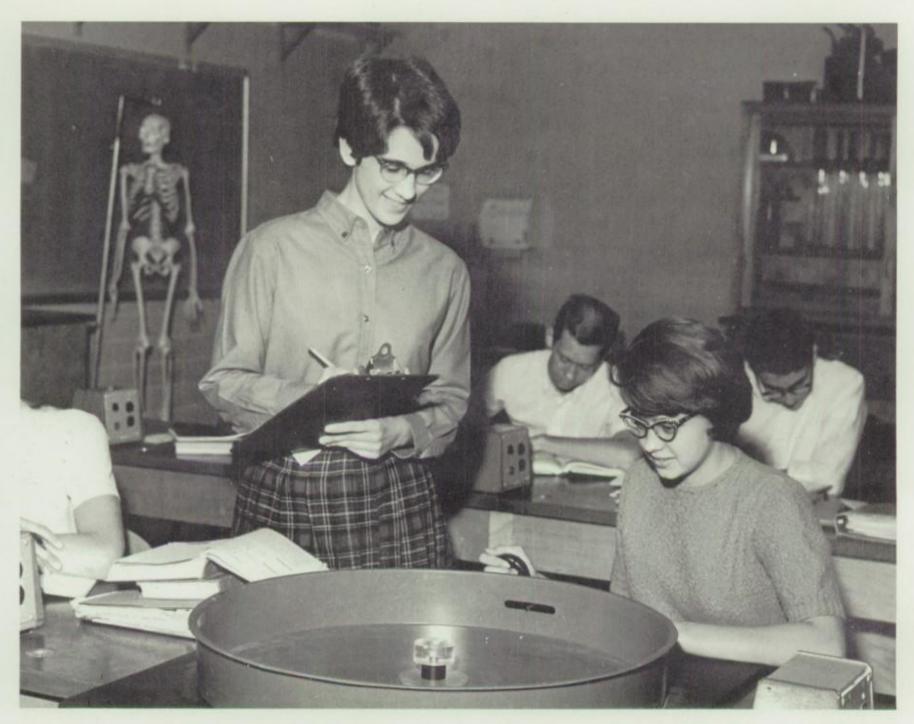

Practical exploration in labs stimulates physics and chemistry students.

Kathy Halderman, Richard Freels, and Tim Klump refer to their lab sheets to get the desired results from the experiment.

By use of a scattering apparatus, Martha Woodard and Barbara Majewski become acquainted with the mechanics of the scattering of atomic particles.

Mrs. Bridgett Gorman

The study of chemistry introduced students to the composition, structure, and properties of various substances. Experiments taught students to perform and calculate chemical reactions. They mastered the use of the Bunsen burner by manipulation of the glass tube in its flame, and from there, they progressed to study of the periodic chart, the slide rule, and equation balancing. An early bird class of advanced chemistry was opened to those students who had successfully completed the general chemistry course.

Students in physics learned about the interactions of matter and energy in the fields of mechanics, heat, sound, light, magnetism, and electricity. They also delved further into the structure of the atom and learned more about nuclear phenomena. Students discovered the importance of a strong background in mathematics.

Mrs. Sue Wagner

Mrs. Lois Gladfelter

MISS ZUCKER, who heads the language department and teaches Spanish, also advises Honor Society and the Spanish Honorary. She would like to see an outstanding club award presented each year. MRS. WAGNER, new to Whitmer this year, teaches Spanish and advises the Spanish Honorary and the Spanish Club. Her most interesting vacation was an eight week trip to Mexico last summer. MRS. GLADFELTER teaches Latin and French and advises Classical Honor Society. She likes the moment of silence each morning, and she likes spring because everything comes to life after the winter. MR. ASCUNCE, who teaches Spanish and advises the Spanish Club, would like to see Latin American history added to the curriculum. His favorite Whitmer tradition is the annual circus.

Diane Ducat and Judy Dye review Latin phrases which are often used in today's language.

Miss Janet Zucker Head of Department

Language lab aids students in learning a foreign tongue.

Students who took a foreign language learned not only the language, but the culture and customs of the nation as well. In addition to the language lab, the teachers used records, movies, and tapes to encourage a better understanding of a specific country and its people and their language.

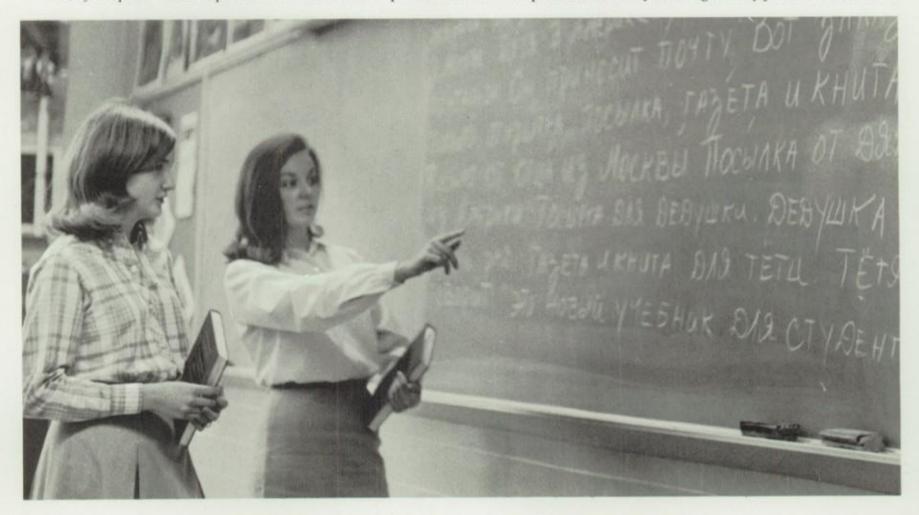

First and second year students of Spanish learned basic grammar and Spanish culture. Third and fourth year students read and discussed novels and short stories. One advanced class edited and published three Spanish newspapers during the year. A program of music and dancing was presented to all Spanish students to encourage an interest in Spanish culture.

Although Latin isn't spoken today, it is the basis for many of today's languages. Students learned many Latin phrases which have become part of our vocabulary. In addition, Roman history in the time of Caesar was studied by beginning students while advanced students translated the works of Cicero.

Spanish dialogues come alive as Jeff Karp listens intently to recordings in the language lab.

Marty Stephens and Stephanie Fickel learn to improve their Russian pronunciation by reading a story from the board.

Janie Schall and Mindy Orde take an imaginary excursion on the roads of France.

Great enthusiasm was shown for Russian which was added to the language curriculum this year. Students began by learning a completely new and longer alphabet. They read simple stories to practice grammar, and they used the language lab to emphasize correct pronunciation. They also gave reports on books by Russian authors to add to their knowledge of the country.

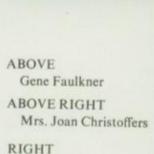

French was taught in many different ways. Students learned their numbers by playing Bingo in French, and in some classes they improvised skits using restaurant scenes, ticket sales, and travel information to familiarize themselves with French conversation. They also studied French literature and art and music for a general background of the culture of France.

First year German students spent most of the year learning grammar and practicing in conversation. Second year students studied the customs and poetry and songs of the German people. Students were fortunate to have two boys who had spent six weeks in Germany and Austria last summer tell about their personal experiences at the University of Salzburg.

New Russian course provides wider choice of foreign languages.

MR. FAULKNER, who teaches Russian and German, also advises both the Russian and the German Clubs. He thinks advanced German should be added to the curriculum, and his favorite season is summer because of the sun. MRS. CHRISTOFFERS teaches English and French and advises Senior FTA. She thinks that remedial reading should be taught at Whitmer, and her favorite tradition is the Victory Bell and all that it represents. MR. KREINBRINK, who teaches French and advises the French Club, also directed Father's Been to Mars. He thinks courses in Italian and Chinese should be added to the curriculum, and his favorite season is the fall.

MR. JOHNSON, who is the head of the industrial arts department and teaches woodworking, is also vice president of the teachers' credit union. He likes to spend his leisure time reading or gardening. MR. MOORE, who teaches driver education before and after school, teaches metals and architectural drawing during the school day. His favorite season is summer because he likes to swim, water ski, and work out-of-doors. MR. SLOVAK, director of Flower Drum Song, teaches mechanical drawing, and he would like to see stagecraft added to Whitmer's curriculum. He thinks that the circus is a fine tradition and hopes that the musical will become one.

In a metals class, several students use the forming stakes to fashion their ash trays or candy dishes from copper.

Mr. Del Johnson Head of Department

Otto Kistenmacher wears protective goggles as he uses a soldering iron in metals class.

Special interests take shape as boys learn craftsmanship.

A course in mechanical drawing is preparation for those students who wish to pursue a career in engineering. Students made working drawings of machine parts as well as cross section and pictorial drawings of tools. This year for the first time, girls enrolled in mechanical drawing in preparation for commercial art. The architectural drawing course taught students to design private and commercial buildings.

In the general metals class, students learned to work with art metals as well as utility metals. They studied gas and electric welding and learned to solder joints. Each boy chose to make a project which he completed before the end of the year.

In addition to learning a skill, the woodworking classes gained an appreciation of good design and craftsmanship. As a school service, the classes made picture frames to be hung in the halls and refinished a podium and speakers' table for use on the stage.

A diligent worker uses the lathe to turn a table leg for the coffee table he is making.

Pat Kaminski practices Old English lettering which takes slow and careful printing.

Terry Hilyard's wood sculpture begins to take shape after many hours of patient work.

MR. TAYLOR, who is a Whitmer graduate, teaches art and advises the junior class. He works as a landscaper during the summer months, and summer is his favorite time of year. MRS. BARR, who teaches fine arts, would like to see art appreciation and advertising added to Whitmer's curriculum. Her favorite season is summer because she enjoys traveling and swimming, MRS, SAH-LEY teaches arts and crafts and junior English. She appreciates the friendly way that Whitmer welcomes newcomers. Her favorite vacation was a trip to Cape Cod and Plymouth. MISS KERN teaches homemaking and advises FHA. Her favorite topic this year was her wonderful trip to the Far East last summer. She would like to see a senior banquet become a tradition. MISS STEINER, who teaches home economics, likes spring and fall best because of the weather and the autumn colors. She enjoys meeting people and often spends her summers traveling.

Home economics and fine arts encourage imaginative ideas.

With the larger number of students interested in fine art, it was necessary to have another teacher this year. Art students learned to express themselves through the drawing, painting, ceramics, and sculpturing classes. Students used their creativity in arts and crafts where they made various objects from many different materials. Art students had the opportunity to exhibit their work at the Toledo Hobby Show.

This year girls who took home economics baked and sent Christmas cookies to former students in the armed forces. They learned a little about canning and preserving by canning tomatoes and making fresh jam. Students became familiar with and used different kinds of fabrics in sewing and dressmaking. They studied flower arranging and interior decorating in the home furnishing course.

Jackie Randall looks on as Tresia Eachus puts the final touches on her floral arrangement.

In order to practice hair styling, Sandy Regenold sets Marsha Duckett's hair in cosmetology class.

Cosmetology and shop prepare students for future opportunities.

The vocational program was opened to girls this year with the addition of cosmetology. This two year course qualified students to take their state boards. Girls followed a course of science studies in the classroom. For practice, each girl used a manikin and also learned to shampoo, cut, and style her classmates' hair. Girls attended a styling show and watched demonstrations by a color technician. With more experience and confidence, the girls hope to receive patrons next year.

Students who wished to become machinists, repairmen, or tool and die makers gained valuable knowledge and experience in the machine shop. In the related science classes, they learned the mathematics necessary for their trade and blueprint reading. Many boys were employed by factories during the afternoon hours of the day, thus serving their apprenticeships and attending school at the same time.

The girls in cosmetology class find a unique place for study under the hair dryer.

MR. PRITTS is the supervisor of Vocational Education. The Whitmer tradition he likes best is the Little Brown Jug. Among the courses he would like to add to the curriculum are printing, photography and carpentry. MRS. IRWIN, new this year, teaches the new cosmetology course. She likes the athletic program best at Whitmer and her pet peeve is absenteeism. Her most interesting vacation was a motor trip to California. A vocational teacher in the machine shop, MR. GRAVES feels that more vocational education should be added to the curriculum. He enjoys a four season year, but likes fall weather the best. New to Whitmer this year is MR. DUSSEAU who teaches machine shop and related science. He enjoys his fellow teachers' attitude, but dislikes Friday afternoons. His most interesting vacation was spent sailing.

Drafting, electronics, and auto mechanics teach boys a trade.

This year a course in vocational drafting was added to the curriculum. The boys made sketches, designed dies, and drew tools and machine parts for industrial production. In the classroom they studied the related sciences of mathematics and drawing application theory. The students learned to do their own thinking in the methods of making industrial products.

The electronics course in the vocational program was expanded this year. More boys were added to the program and additional equipment was purchased. The class included a combination of classroom lectures and demonstrations as well as laboratory work. The boys repaired radios and small electrical appliances which they brought from home. Each student built his own radio power supply unit and electro-magnetic relay from kits supplied by the school.

Auto mechanics students received practical training in automotive repair. The auto shop was run like a garage and cars were brought in for repair or adjustment. The boys reconditioned a lift truck and performed engine tuneups, brake adjustments, and carburetor cleanings on many cars during the year. The class spent half of each day in the auto shop and one hour in related science class.

In the auto mechanics shop Jack Brown, Mike Gladney, and Jim Lambert repair the lift truck which belongs to the Board of Education.

He enjoys the excellent facilities and personnel at Whitmer, and his pet peeve is people who don't work up to their abilities. MR. POPPE, who teaches electronics, would like to see basic mathematics for electronics added to the curriculum. His favorite season is fall because it is colorful and not too hot to be relaxed. MR. WEINSTEIN, who teaches vocational drafting, likes the working conditions best about Whitmer. He is the father of two children, and his most interesting vacation was one he took to California.

In vocational drafting class, Randy Anderson measures a crankshaft with a micrometer in order to make a precise drawing.

Aviation and driver education challenge interested students.

Whitmer's horizons were broadened this year with the addition of an aviation course. The students learned how to read detailed flight maps. They studied navigation by the use of charts, and they learned the importance of weather and federal air regulations. Students who paid a laboratory fee got enough actual flying experience at Toledo Express Airport during the semester to make their first solo flight.

Many well-trained drivers were the result of the driver education course. The students not only learned the state driving laws, but also the care and structure of the car itself. Experience was gained as the driver education cars were driven in all kinds of weather. A good driver is also a safe driver, and, as the students learned to drive, safety became a habit.

Practice is necessary to gain tone quality and harmonic sound.

In late August, members of the marching band attended practice for two weeks to learn the music and drills for the first home football game which featured "Music Men U.S.A." Later two bands were formed to play at concerts and assemblies and district contests. The pep band and the stage band were popular with students who wanted to boost school spirit or play at dances.

The mixed choir and the sophomore girls' ensemble were the vocal groups offered to Whitmer students. These singing groups performed at the fall Honor Society assembly and at the annual Christmas program.

In preparation for the Christmas concert, the flute section joins the rest of the band in playing the Hallelujah Chorus.

Members of the girls' ensemble practice harmony as they sing three part music.

SRADEJA, the bowling coach, teaches world history. Although his childhood ambition was to be a big game hunter, he has been a member of the Whitmer faculty for three years. MR. GREENBERG, a former Whitmerite, teaches American history. His pet peeve is people who mow their lawn at 6:00 A.M. on Sunday morning, and his favorite vacation was a trip to Ft. Lauderdale. MR. GANNON, adviser of AFS, taught world geography and American history first semester. He became the coordinator for the occupational work experience program which was added to the curriculum second semester. MR. KERLIN, who teaches American government and coaches wrestling, would like to see political science added to Whitmer's curriculum. He served as president of the teachers' organization during the past year. MISS CORROTHERS, who teaches world history, advises JCWA, the senior class, and the Whitmerettes. She likes the victory bell best because it makes her feel proud to be a part of Whitmer. As a new faculty member, MR. HALL teaches American history and is an assistant football coach. Sociology and civics teach group activity and citizens' rights.

The social studies curriculum taught all phases of history study. This year the American Traditions class conducted a survey among some of the adults in the community to determine the public's knowledge of governmental documents. Very few people recognized the first two paragraphs of the Declaration of Independence, and the comments and reactions of the majority were numerous and interesting. Other history classes delved into the beginnings and growth of our country as well as the civic, economic, and social changes which formed a background for an understanding of America's development. A broader outlook of the past was offered in world history, and contemporary history was a study of the recent happenings of the world.

For a basic understanding of the government of the United States, the civics course offered a detailed study of the Constitution and citizenship. Students of government took a field trip to the county court house and the county jail during the time they were studying local government.

The economics course included a general background in governmental controls, the role of the consumer, the functions of our banking systems, and the problems of business and labor.

In world geography class, students analyzed the effects of geography and climate upon world civilizations by detailed study of the earth's surface.

Through discussions of both current and ancient social problems, sociology enabled students to understand human emotions and societies much more easily.

A group of sociology students spend class time in the library to gather material for a term paper.

On a bright winter morning, civics students leave the school for a field trip to the court house.

Math opens doors to the world of science and the age of space.

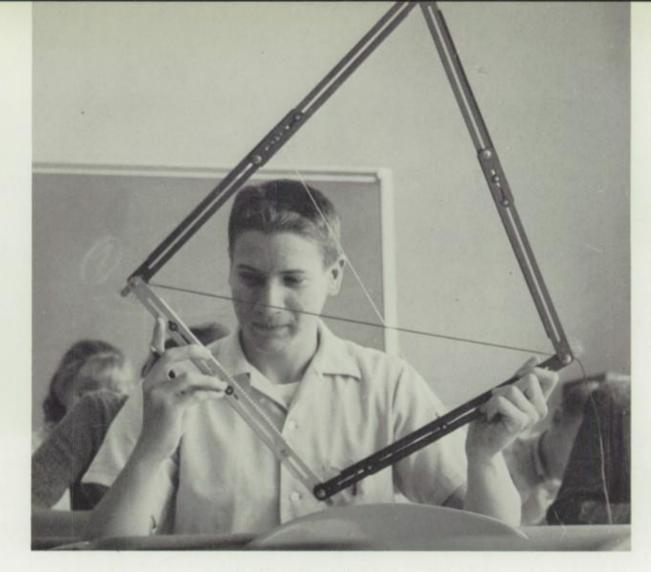

An expanded mathematics faculty was necessary this year in order to offer a sufficient number of classes to interested students, and to provide students with the advantages of modern math and its impact on future careers. An honors senior math class was offered in addition to the senior math course already in the curriculum. Both courses included a study of plane trigonometry and analytical geometry. First year algebra was offered to students who wished to start a major in mathematics, and advanced algebra was available to those who wished to continue their study of algebraic processes. Plane geometry, a study of geometric figures and the construction of them, required the student to use logic and reasoning. An honors course including plane and solid geometry was offered to capable students.

HAYDOCK, who returned to the faculty, teaches shop math and geometry. He enjoys the friendly attitude and sincerity of the teachers, and he is married and the father of three children. MRS. KARAZIM, who coaches the cheerleaders, teaches plane geometry and advanced algebra. She feels that each department should broaden its offerings to students, and she likes school spirit when it exists. MRS. BERTRAM, advanced algebra teacher, would like to add an advanced course in general math to the curriculum. She feels that the most interesting tradition is the annual tapping of Honor Society members. New to the faculty is MR. KIRBY, a sophomore class adviser and teacher of plane geometry and shop math. He likes Whitmer, and his pet peeve is students without Whitmer pride. MISS KLUMP, who advises Pep Club and teaches plane geometry, likes the spirit of co-operation between faculty and students. She admires anyone who develops his talents and always does his best. MR. ROBERTS teaches algebra and geometry and is a varsity football coach. Married and the father of one child, he finds summer the most enjoyable season because school is out. In his second year at Whitmer, MR. MUNTER teaches shop math and algebra. He is a graduate of the University of Toledo and summer is his favorite season because he likes to relax.

Mrs. Moss finds that a touch of humor can help to stimulate response in her sophomore girls' health class.

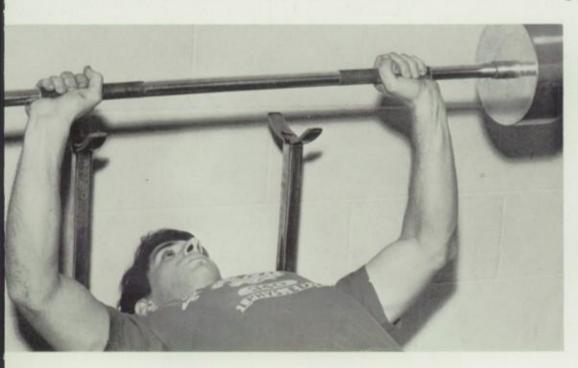

This year, for the first time, health was required for all sophomore students. During the year physical education and health classes were interchanged to create a balance between the two. In the fall, students were kept busy learning and practicing the skills of soccer, speed ball, and speed-away. In addition to these sports, the girls also played field hockey and the boys played football. Squads in each class competed to become the top team for that hour.

Following Thanksgiving vacation and the completion of the new gym floor, all classes moved into the field house for instructions in basic tumbling skills. After four weeks, each student chose to continue tumbling or take creative movement. Those who continued tumbling prepared and practiced routines for the annual circus.

Following the circus, the tumbling mats were put away and volleyball became the popular sport. When the spring weather became suitable, classes moved outside to finish the year's activities with softball competition.

The corrective gym was available to students unable to participate in the regular activities during any period of the school year.

Typing and business machines courses train students for careers.

Three different typing courses were available to students. Business typing taught the parts of a typewriter and its proper care, the correct form for a business letter or manuscript, and the speed and accuracy necessary to become a competent typist. Office practice for business majors taught more advanced typing, filing, and reception duties. In personal typing, seniors learned to type research papers and reports.

The business machines course was expanded this year by the addition of a Multilith machine. Students learned to operate it as well as the calculators, the bookkeeping machines, and a new copying machine. Shorthand students learned to use symbols to represent various sounds of our language. Through practice by dictation, the students gained speed and accuracy. Notehand, a semester course for students planning to enter college, taught them to take good notes in less time.

Business math, a course in basic arithmetic, proved useful to all business students. They learned to work interest-rate problems, to make up payrolls, and to figure percentages. The sales course taught students the psychology of salesmanship, and the students gained confidence as they promoted their products in a sales speech to the class. Business seniors in consumer economics learned the roles of the producer and the consumer in the business world.

Record keeping, a basic course in teaching students to keep simple records and accounts, was offered again this year. Both beginning and advanced bookkeeping were available to students who learned to record transactions in a journal, to post to ledgers, and to prepare statements.

With her fingers on the home keys, a typing student prepares to begin a new paragraph.

Sandy Saelzler and Sandy Semler carefully follow the step by step instructions as they learn to operate the new Multilith in the business department.

MISS GAIFFE teaches bookkeeping and typing. New to Whitmer this year, the thing which most impresses her is the school spirit. Her pet peeve is mechanical items which don't work properly. MRS. EMERY, who is married and has two children, teaches business English, consumer economics, and typing. She loves the outdoors and the summer months rate as her favorite time of year. Golfers find only one stumbling stone on road to success.

The Panthers started their golf season in full swing as they trampled the Bedford Mules in the first match of the year.

With practice and the fine coaching of Marty Brumbaugh, the golfers developed the proper form and drive which led to a triumphant season.

After a setback by the Sylvania Wildcats, the team went on to defeat Bowling Green which was included in a five game winning streak with Bedford, Rogers, Clay, and Ottawa Hills. The only other mar in their record was the last match of the year when the Wildcats defeated the Panthers for the second time in one season. Despite the two losses to Sylvania, the Panthers' over-all record was 6—2.

Cindermen find keen competition against championship teams.

Whitmer's track team faced stiff competition during the 1966 season for many of its competitors were regional champions. In the first trimeet the Panthers lost second place by five points. The next meet found the team within nine points of victory over Port Clinton. After a loss to Sylvania, the trackmen moved across the river to lose to a determined nest of Eagles at Clay. Watching the oncoming ball, Larry Holden thrusts himself forward as he attempts to hit another home run.

With the break in the weather and the approach of spring, a Whitmer varsity baseball team took the field for the thirty-sixth year under the experienced coaching ability of Mr. Stacy.

The Panthers opened the season with a victory over Rogers. A combination of weather problems and bad timing gave the Panthers an eight loss string that was interrupted only by the victories over Bedford and Adrian.

Endurance runners find a rough season marked with injuries.

When most Whitmerites were concerned about the next football game, a score of boys were putting in many hours of continuous running in preparation for the next cross country meet. Whitmer's second cross country team took the field this year under the guidance of Coach Migliori, who helped the boys get into shape and build speed, form, and endurance. All the afternoons of hard work paid off as Whitmer defeated Rogers in the first meet and then went on to Anthony Wayne to do equally as well. The season closed with a victory as the Panthers defeated Genoa.

With only a few members, the bowling team formed just one squad for this season's matches. Though showing consistent form and poise, team members struggled through many Saturday mornings at Great Eastern Lanes. The team was led by two experienced seniors, Ed Bailey and Dave Plunkett.

This year a new sport, swimming, was added to the wide selection of athletics already at Whitmer. Coached by new faculty member, Mr. Cicak, the swimmers practiced teamwork swimming. The Panther divers also began to show promise during the meets. Although the swim team was not large, it consisted of strong juniors and sophomores who will be back for the team next year. New coaching staff inspires team pride in Whitmer players

Elected by their teammates, Jay Dubendorfer and Bob Allinson served proudly as this year's gridiron co-captains.

During August of 1966, a handful of new coaches and the Panther football squad developed a new and stronger spirit. Through the rugged pre-season conditioning program, Whitmer Pride became an integral part of all the players and later took hold of the spirited student body.

With a record of three wins and three losses, the first six games of the schedule showed a promising season. The eager Panther team fought desperately against their seventh gridiron foe until the fourth quarter, where the powerful Rogers team broke the 6—6 tie. A defeat by a highly skilled St. Francis team and a tie with Sylvania brought Whitmer to the key game of the year. This meeting with Bedford was not just a game but an all-out effort of coach, player, and manager. Although up against a determined Panther squad, the strong pack of Mules still downed the team.

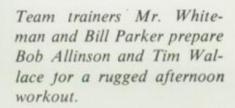

Three members of the varsity squad, Denver Beck, Bob Allinson, and Stu Harris, represented the Panthers on the first team in the all GLL rating.

Tim Klump scrambles for a loose ball as Gene Stoner and Ed Otte follow up behind.

A new coach shares hours of hard work with Panther cagers.

A different coach and an increased school spirit ushered in Whitmer's 1966-1967 basketball season. Mr. Mattimore, new to the varsity, introduced several plays and spurred the players on to greater efforts. The Panthers made a good showing in the area with an over-all record of ten wins and eight losses. In league play they had a 7-5 record with third place in the GLL. Every game ended in a "come from behind" rally, with a few coming too late. Hopes for an undefeated league season for Rogers were broken by Whitmer in a demonstration that few teams showed this year. The Panthers had only a handful of tall players, but they and their smaller team members showed what "guts" and pride can do in the "big man's" sport.

The reserve record was eight wins and ten losses.

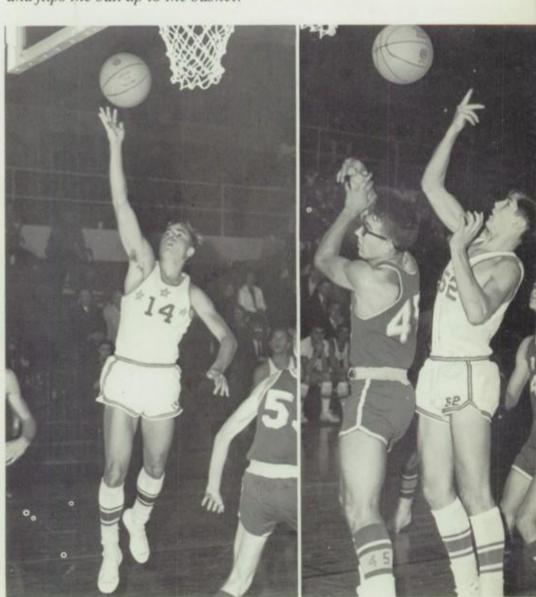

Joe Dusza has a ball leaping almost a forearm's length above all the other giants.

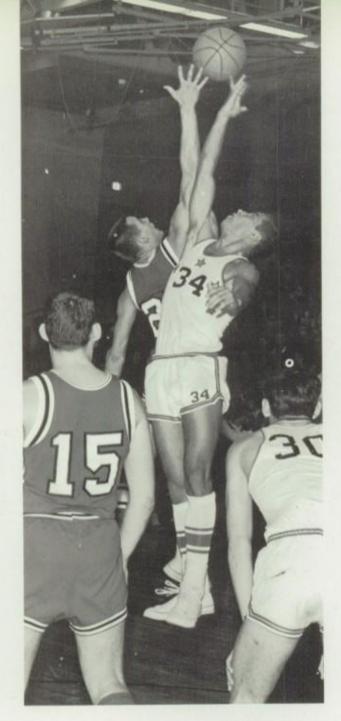

Tim Klump throws himself into a Start player trying to get control of the ball.

Center Gene Stoner strains to tip the ball to a Panther teammate.

Dean Combs attempts to block a Start field goal.

Reserve Chuck Krohn reaches to keep the ball out of the hands of his opponents.

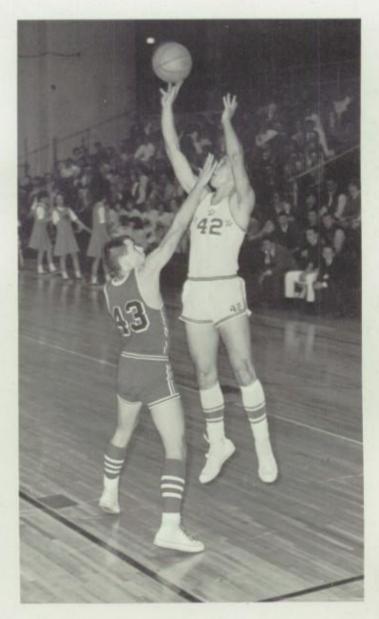

RESERVES: F. Knakiewicz, R. Deeds, D. Mitchell, R. Basch, T. Striggow, T. Herringshaw, M. Murphy, K. Ward, D. Wilhelm, W. Ballew, A. Monday, D. Bomar, J. Cravens, R. Bergman.

Whitmer courtmen see much action as they strive for victories.

With a hand in his face, Carl Sims concentrates on his intended target.

The referee's thumb gives Randy Miller the desired result of a strong palm on the ball.

Wrestlers' wins are proof of many hours of rigorous practice.

Speed, power, grace, and coordination form the basic outline of a wrestler. Many long hours of hard, grueling practice, a coach that would not accept second best, and a drive to win that knew no limits, shaped the muscular frame of a Whitmer wrestler. Under the experienced guidance of Coach Kerlin, the Panther grapplers endured many rough meets and ended with the fine record of 8 wins, 1 tie, and I loss. During the Christmas vacation, the matmen were victorious at the Whitmer invitational tournament. Two days later, the Whitmer grapplers traveled to Bowling Green to win the invitational tournament held there. Although the team placed fourth, Denver Beck, John Groves, and Greg Wojciechowski received top honors in their respective weight classes at the GLL tournament. Later at the state meet in Columbus, Greg became the heavyweight champion of Ohio.

By driving upward and forward, Dave Fisher manages to jolt his man off balance.

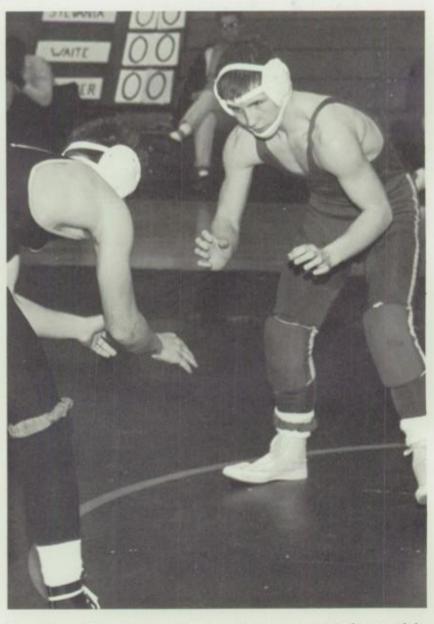

The arms and legs of Gary Riley, better known as Spider, surround a Rogers wrestler.

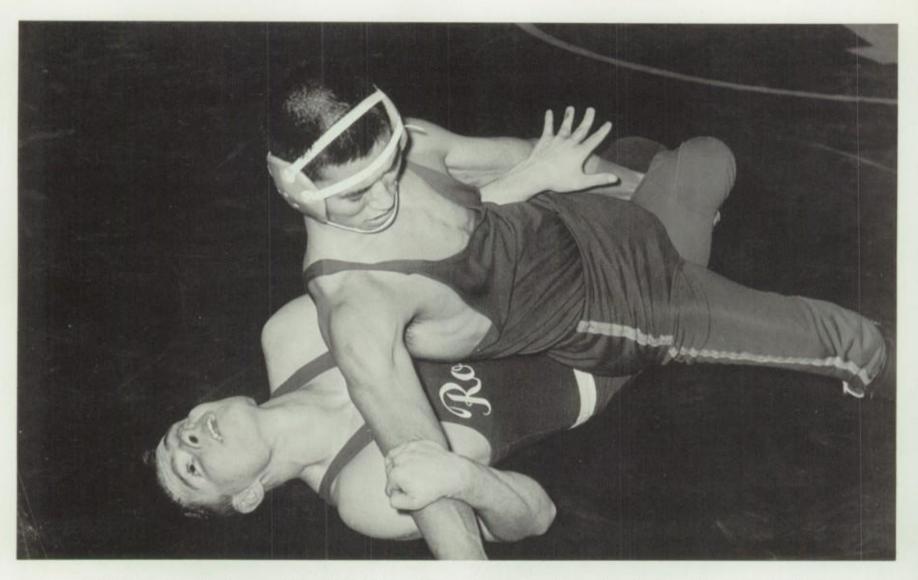

With a hefty shove, John Vance buries his opponent's face in the mat and gains the advantage of any future move.

Lee Wunschel stares at his opponent's waist so that no fake will deceive him.

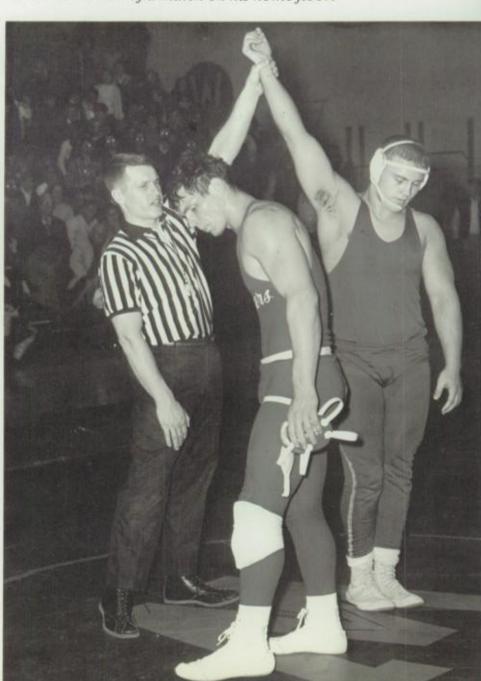

With an awkward pin near at hand, Rod Kusumi braces an arm and a leg in order to apply more pressure.

With a burst of energy, Doug Sharp lifts his opponent completely off the mat in an attempt to escape.

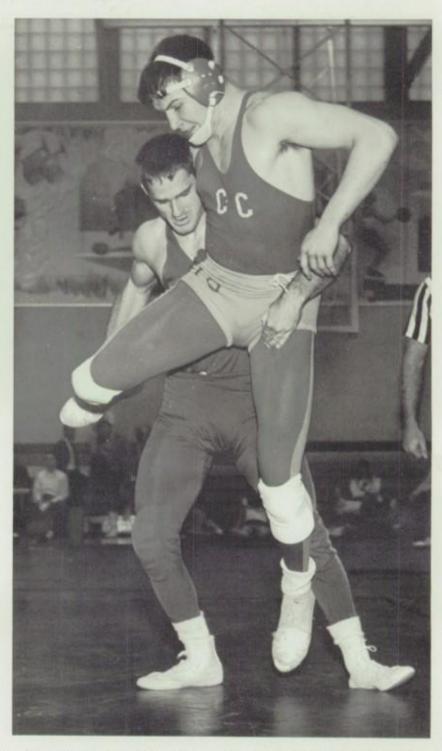

By grasping hands, Denver Beck and his Rogers opponent attempt to determine the other grappler's next move.

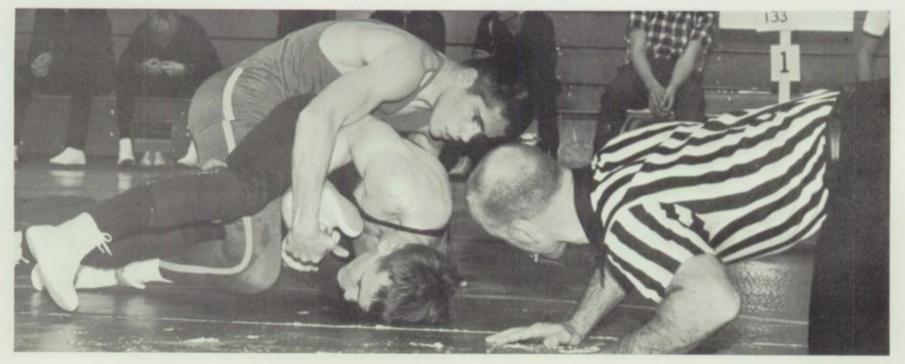

Three GLL champs pin down victories for a fine Panther record.

With the official eye of the referee on the scene, John Groves, the 133 pound GLL champion, spares no pain in turning over his opponent.

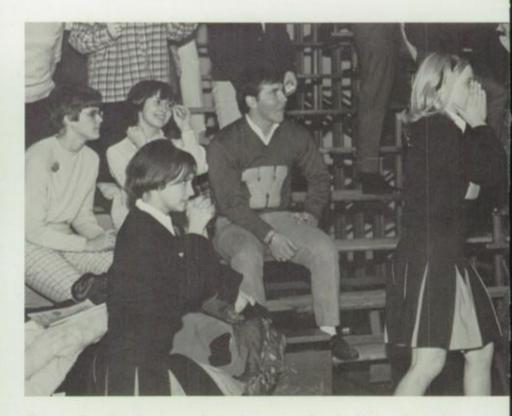

Karen Ford jumps at the opportunity of leading a cheer at her first pep session.

Whitmer cheerleaders inspire students with pep and enthusiasm.

After school, the loud and enthusiastic voices of the cheerleaders practicing in front of the field house could be heard throughout the halls. The varsity squad was a combination of junior and senior girls while the reserves were all sophomores.

During the football season, the girls frequently got together for pizza parties before the games. They and their coach, Mrs. Karazim, spent their first overnight in Newark when they were allowed to go with the team to the first game of the year.

The cheerleaders planned and led many successful pep sessions in the field house, the stadium, and the auditorium. The athletic season would not have been complete without these peppy girls.

As Mr. Erme tightens the mike, he also tightens the Panther emotions until all spirit is let loose at the peak of his speech.

Diane Hain watches the ball as Sue Edgington practices her swing.

BELOW: Janet Griffith executes a lunge as Joan Griffith attempts to pass the ball.

Variety and action in GAA sports make for fitness and fun.

Many girls enjoy participating in sports as well as watching them. Girls' Athletic Association was the group to serve this purpose. Girls could take part in several individual as well as team sports, and squads were formed for each sport. The teams practiced and played against each other in intramural competition before they competed with other schools.

Judy Bevington and Charlene Smith take an active part in a GAA practice meet.

Joan Griffith serves the ball while Charlene Smith awaits its return.

Cindy Lamberson, Karen Hibbard, Cathy Plunkett, and Bonnie Bortel keep a stiff arm and a steady eye on their target.

From the elementary floor pyramids to the climaxing ladder act, over 900 enthusiastic participants made the thirty-first annual circus a spectacular success. Some of the most popular acts, although they required hard work, were elementary co-ed, two-man girls, and calisthenics. Skillful clowns and a giant caterpillar, which was added to the animal act, were part of the pageantry of the evening. Tumblers with unusual abilities performed on the parallel bars, balance beams, and other apparatus.

Class rivalry ran high as the traditional relays were run. For the second consecutive year, the Class of 1966 claimed the trophy.

The show closed with the ladders, a highly specialized act in which only the most talented gymnasts may perform.

Carnival, last spring's musical directed by Mr. Paul Slovak, played three nights to a packed house. The colorful costumes ordered from New York, the familiar tunes, and the unusual carnival acts all added to the glamour of circus life.

The story centered around an orphan girl, Lili, who ran away from home to join the circus. She was thrown into an entirely different kind of life than she had ever known. Lili met many fascinating people, among them Marco the Magnificent and Jacquot, who became an understanding friend. She came to know by name the sword swallower, the acrobats, and the trapeze artists. Last of all she met Paul, who could only show his emotions through puppets.

Lili had many disappointments but all ended happily when she finally realized that she was in love with Paul. The audience was completely captured by the mood of the circus when the theme "Love Makes the World Go 'Round" ended the production.

Fine weather, cheering crowds, and colorful events characterized Homecoming for 1966. Festivities began on Thursday evening with a rousing snake dance which wound from Wernerts Corners to the stadium. Introduced this year, the snake dance promises to become one of Whitmer's traditions.

Classes worked hard to produce the lovely floats seen in the pre-game ceremonies. Last year's queen, Dawn O'Neil, ended her reign when she crowned JoLynn Edgington Homecoming Queen for 1966. Diana Krieger and Debbie Gillespie were elected junior and sophomore attendants by their respective classes. Climaxing the night, the Panther gridders triumphed over Fostoria by a score of 6—0.

On Saturday, a New Orleans theme dominated the enjoyable evening as students danced to the music of the Nomads in a cafeteria, transformed into a Mardi Gras scene.

Mud-caked junior girls put the finishing touches on the weekend by beating the seniors in a lively powderpuff football game on Sunday afternoon.

This year the senior class presented Ask Any Girl under the direction of Miss Betty Pizzo. The play concerned a small town girl who moved to New York. Meg Wheeler secured a job with a leading firm in the city. There she attracted the attention of the handsome playboy executive, Evan Doughton, and, with the help of Evan's brother Miles, initiated an elaborate plan to trap him. The plan worked perfectly, except that Meg fell in love with Miles, but eventually he realized that he loved her. The production ended on a happy note when Meg's parents came to New York and were pleased with Meg's future husband.

The star of his own television show, Captain Galaxy, played by Chuck Conn, peers through the screen at his viewers.

The junior class play, Father's Been to Mars, was directed by Mr. Leonard Kreinbrink with Marsha Kjoller as student director. The space age comedy centered around a TV star, Captain Galaxy, alias Larry Gibson, who was so involved in his character that he had his whole family living in the twenty-first century.

Mr. Gibson embarrassed his oldest daughter Gloria in front of her boyfriend Ned Morris and scared him right out of the house. Larry's wife Mildred didn't realize what was going on until her husband brought the villain of his program, Countess Vilma, home and the countess insulted her dearest friends.

To show Larry what he had been doing to their lives, Mildred and Gloria dressed up in weird costumes when J. R. Pierce, the president of the network came over. Mr. Pierce planned to make Mr. Gibson a vice-president, but Mr. Pierce was frightened away by the prank. Ned, Mr. Pierce's nephew, brought a happy ending when he persuaded the executive to meet the Gibsons as they really were, a charming and unique family.

The Junior Prom, "Isle of Enchantment," was held in March at the Zenobia Shrine Temple. Couples danced under the leaning palm trees to the romantic music of Pretz Russell. Grass huts, tiki dolls, and island scenes added to the theme of the tropical paradise. Queen Ruth Jagos was enthroned in a Polynesian setting dominated by ancient idols. The evening was a truly memorable visit to the South Seas.

Strutting on the field for the first time, Randy Scott, the new sophomore drum major, led the Whitmer Panther Marching Band through a season of rivalries, bus trips, and Sugar Daddies. After the football season, four bands were formed. The Gold Symphonic and Blue Varsity bands played for assemblies and concerts and the District I Band contest. The pep band helped liven pep sessions and aided the cheerleaders to build spirit at basketball games. This year the stage band was reorganized, and members played jazz and dance music. During February, the Ohio State University Concert Band was brought to Whitmer and it presented a concert to the student body. Bandsmen auditioned for the pit orchestra for the musical. An interest in music and singing was the only requirement to join the Girls' Ensemble or the A Cappella Choir. The choir included junior and senior girls and all interested boys while the ensemble was restricted to sophomore girls.

During the first semester, under the direction of Mrs. Nightingale, the two choral groups added the sound of music to several school events. The choir sang for the winter Honor Society tapping, and both groups presented selections at the Christmas assembly. With the band, they presented many favorites at their holiday concert. When Mr. Brown returned second semester, the two groups were combined. The resulting larger choir added their voices to the senior assembly and commencement, their final group presentations.

Student Council is the representation of the ideas of the student body. toothbrush, orphan, and courtyard projects.

This year Student Council sponsored an orientation day for new juniors and seniors. Another early project was the all-school toothbrush sale. Members also reorganized inter-club council and provided a leadership workshop to teach club officers better ways to lead a group. Bulletin boards were installed in the cafeteria for club announcements, and Thanksgiving and Christmas programs were planned and given. Members helped instill school spirit by selling booster buttons and pennants to Panther fans. Council also sponsored a Korean orphan and provided baskets for some needy families at Christmas. The student body especially benefited from the tutoring service and the beautification of the courtyards begun by Student Council.

Student Council sponsored Korean orphan Ha Yong Mi and brightened her days with mail and gifts from Whitmer students. Interested students formed a reception committee to meet the West German team at the airport before the World Wrestling Championship Meet.

Prospective teachers and community leaders

Senior FTA members Sue Henly and Kathy Klein put the final touches on their Halloween piñata for the kindergarten classes at Franklin School.

The Future Teachers of America gave service to the community while learning more about the teaching profession. The club was divided into two groups, one for juniors and one for seniors. Besides seeing movies and hearing speakers on teaching and its problems, members took over classes at one of the elementary schools for an afternoon. The senior members acted as guides at Open House, and they also made a Halloween treat for a kindergarten class. The junior club held bake sales at two of the home basketball games, and late in the spring, junior members were guests at a party given by the senior members.

Girls interested in service and friendship were invited to join Y-Teens. Members had a bake-sale, held a pajama party, played in the Y-Teens volleyball league, and attended the YWCA World Fellowship Fair. As service projects they addressed envelopes for the Tuberculosis Society and donated stuffed animals to the St. Vincent's Hospital Nursery.

Added to the Pep Club this year was a group of cheering girls called the Whitmerettes. These girls practiced hard to learn new cheers and songs in order to build spirit and sportsmanship at basketball games and the wrestling tournament. They formed a W by use of the yellow and blue blouses which they wore, and their maize and blue pompoms added color to the crowd. Pep Club members continued to make locker tags and put up appropriate signs in the lobby as well as serving at athletic banquets.

Varsity W promoted sportsmanship and school spirit for all sports. This year members wore their letter sweaters on Fridays and sat together at the pep sessions to cheer the team on to victory. Their activities included an Easter egg hunt for a children's home and a Christmas basket for a needy family. They also planned a basketball game between club members and the faculty.

bring Spanish customs and culture to Whitmer.

The Spanish Club's activities of this year included an induction and Spanish luncheon at the Park Lane Hotel where paintings from the movie El Greco were shown. Members made a Christmas food basket and at the end of the year, presented the Pan-American Day program. Spanish students with high grades were inducted into the Spanish Honorary. José, the foreign exchange student, talked of his home in Seville, Spain at the fall induction. Club members published newspapers in Spanish in conjunction with the fourth year class. In the spring, they attended the state convention and held the induction at which the best Spanish student was presented an award.

The Whitmer chapter of the American Field Service sponsors activities to raise the money necessary to bring a foreign exchange student to Whitmer. José Gutierrez Goicoechea was this year's foreign student from Spain. The student and adult chapters of AFS sponsored a hootenanny and a very successful garage sale in the fall. Winter activities included a Toledo Blades Hockey game and the annual spaghetti dinner. In the spring, members sold tickets to a film at the Westwood Art Theatre.

Active students, Marcia Krause and Kathi McCluskey, were chosen as final candidates for the Americans Abroad program.

Any student who had at least a C average in Latin was eligible to join the Classical Honor Society. The club's chief activity was the annual slave sale at which new members were "sold" to current members. Slave week was followed by a Roman banquet when the slaves became citizens of Rome and full members of the club. Another activity was the Saturnalia party held at Christmas. For a service project, members put together a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family, and later in the year they raised money by selling stuffed panthers.

Since Russian was taught for the first time this year, the Russian Club was newly organized. Its purpose was to intensify experience in the language and customs of the Russian people. Members held a combined party with the German Club late in the year.

Interest spurred in class stimulated German students to join the German Club. Members sponsored an after game dance and held a German Christmas party during the holidays.

Because of the interest in the interscholastic speech program, the National Forensic League and the Forum have become two of the largest clubs at Whitmer. NFL is an honorary for students who have earned at least twenty-five points in speech work, while Forum is open to any student interested in promoting debate or individual events. Members participated in tournaments from October through February and won trophies in all divisions, which included four classes of debate, boys' and girls' extemporaneous speaking, humorous, dramatic, and oratorical declamation, original oratory, impromptu speaking, and poetry reading. This year the clubs again sponsored a novice tournament in October and the annual Whitmer invitational tournament in December. NFL and Forum members held a dance, sponsored a card party, and served their usual spaghetti dinner in the spring. In late spring, Forum members who had met the requirements, received the coveted invitation to NFL membership. On the night of induction, present members were awarded the new degrees which they had earned during the year.

National Honor Society's major activity this year was a drive to aid flood devastated Florence, Italy, in the name of Andy DelRe, a former exchange student and honor society member. Jim Fillmore personally presented the generous donation from Whitmer and area schools to Andy's school over the winter holidays. For the first time, seniors were tapped and inducted in December, in addition to the traditional spring tapping for juniors. Members served as guides at Open House and the annual debate tournament.

New members were inducted into Quill and Scroll, the journalism honorary, at a banquet in early March. Members sold shakers at football games and used the money to purchase supplies for the paper staff and a paper cutter for the yearbook staff.

Members of Thespians, the dramatic honorary, heard prominent local actors lecture at their meetings on make-up, gestures, and pantomimes. Members also collected magazines for Toledo State Hospital and put on a play for some underprivileged children.

Students with a definite interest in the physical sciences formed the Junior Engineering Technical Society, and through their activities became even more interested in science. Jets members heard a speaker on UFO's, completed a teninch Newtonian reflecting telescope, and visited Surface Combustion and A. P. Parts.

Biology Club is open to students who have completed one semester of biology. As a service project this year, members bought film loops for the science department. In the spring, they spent a day visiting Hidden Lake Gardens in the Irish Hills of lower Michigan. The Vocational Industrial Club of Whitmer helped the community by initiating a safety program. Members also reconditioned a lift truck for the Washington Board of Education. Members attended the VIC state convention in Columbus in the spring and held three dinners during the year.

All students who play chess or who are interested in learning to play are eligible for the Chess Team. The team was consistent in its wins in the Greater Toledo High School Chess League. The team participated in three major tournaments and finished second in the league.

Clubs spur interest in customs and events.

The French Club is open to all students who are taking French or who are interested in France and its customs. This year members were fortunate to hear talks by foreign exchange students and by people who had visited France. Members held a bakesale at a local store and gave a food basket to a needy family.

Any student interested in world affairs was invited to join Junior Council on World Affairs. Members discussed world problems that interested them and took part in the Toledo Area Council meetings during the year. Club members hope that a Whitmer student may go on the European trip which will be sponsored by the adult Toledo Council this summer.

Council members help keep books in shape.

Library Council is a service organization made up of students who daily volunteer to work in the library during their study halls and before or after school. Library workers shelved and mended books, arranged attractive displays, and typed and filed cards as well as many other tasks concerning the library. They also assisted students who needed specific help in locating material. In April, the group attended the annual meeting of the Northwestern Ohio Student Librarians' Association.

Mending books is only part of the job for council members Kathy Gregory, Kathy Trimble, Lisa Henderson, and Karen Williams.

Under their new adviser, Miss Wrzesinski, the members of the Panther's Pause worked very hard to put out an outstanding publication. The staff members spent many hours during and after school preparing for their bi-weekly deadlines. For the first time this year, the staff used high school journalism books as a guide for the paper.

Goals of this year's staff were to get better coverage of all school events and better sales. More students were reached by selling papers during sixth hour. The Pause was reduced in size, the Panther Prominents returned, and editorials had more emphasis on the student body. This year's Christmas supplement was the most successful ever, with twenty pages of greetings.

Also this year the Pause was edited by a junior for the first time. Marilyn Mazziotti was editor for the first semester, and when she moved Diana Kohler took over her post for the second semester.

for the Oracle nears.

The addition of a full color opening section and twelve pages made the 1967 Oracle larger and more colorful than ever before. The enthusiastic acceptance of the Oracle by the student body was noted by the record number of year-books purchased. For the first time the staff had two student photographers, and as a result many more activities could be covered. The incentive of two previous All-American ratings spurred staff members to work long hours in order to achieve the same high standards. Many extra after school sessions were spent planning and preparing layouts and writing copy, captions, and heads.

Last summer editors Kathy Spitler and Donna Irwin visited the American Yearbook Company in Hannibal, Missouri. There, in addition to touring the plant, they talked over their ideas for the Oracle and made definite plans for the 1967 book.

CONGRATULATIONS

to the new graduates

As parents, neighbors, and friends we naturally have a special interest in the quality of our schools.

No community is better than its schools, and no school is better than the determination and willingness of a community to support standards high enough and broad enough to meet tomorrow's levels of need, both vocationally and for citizenship.
